

The Vine

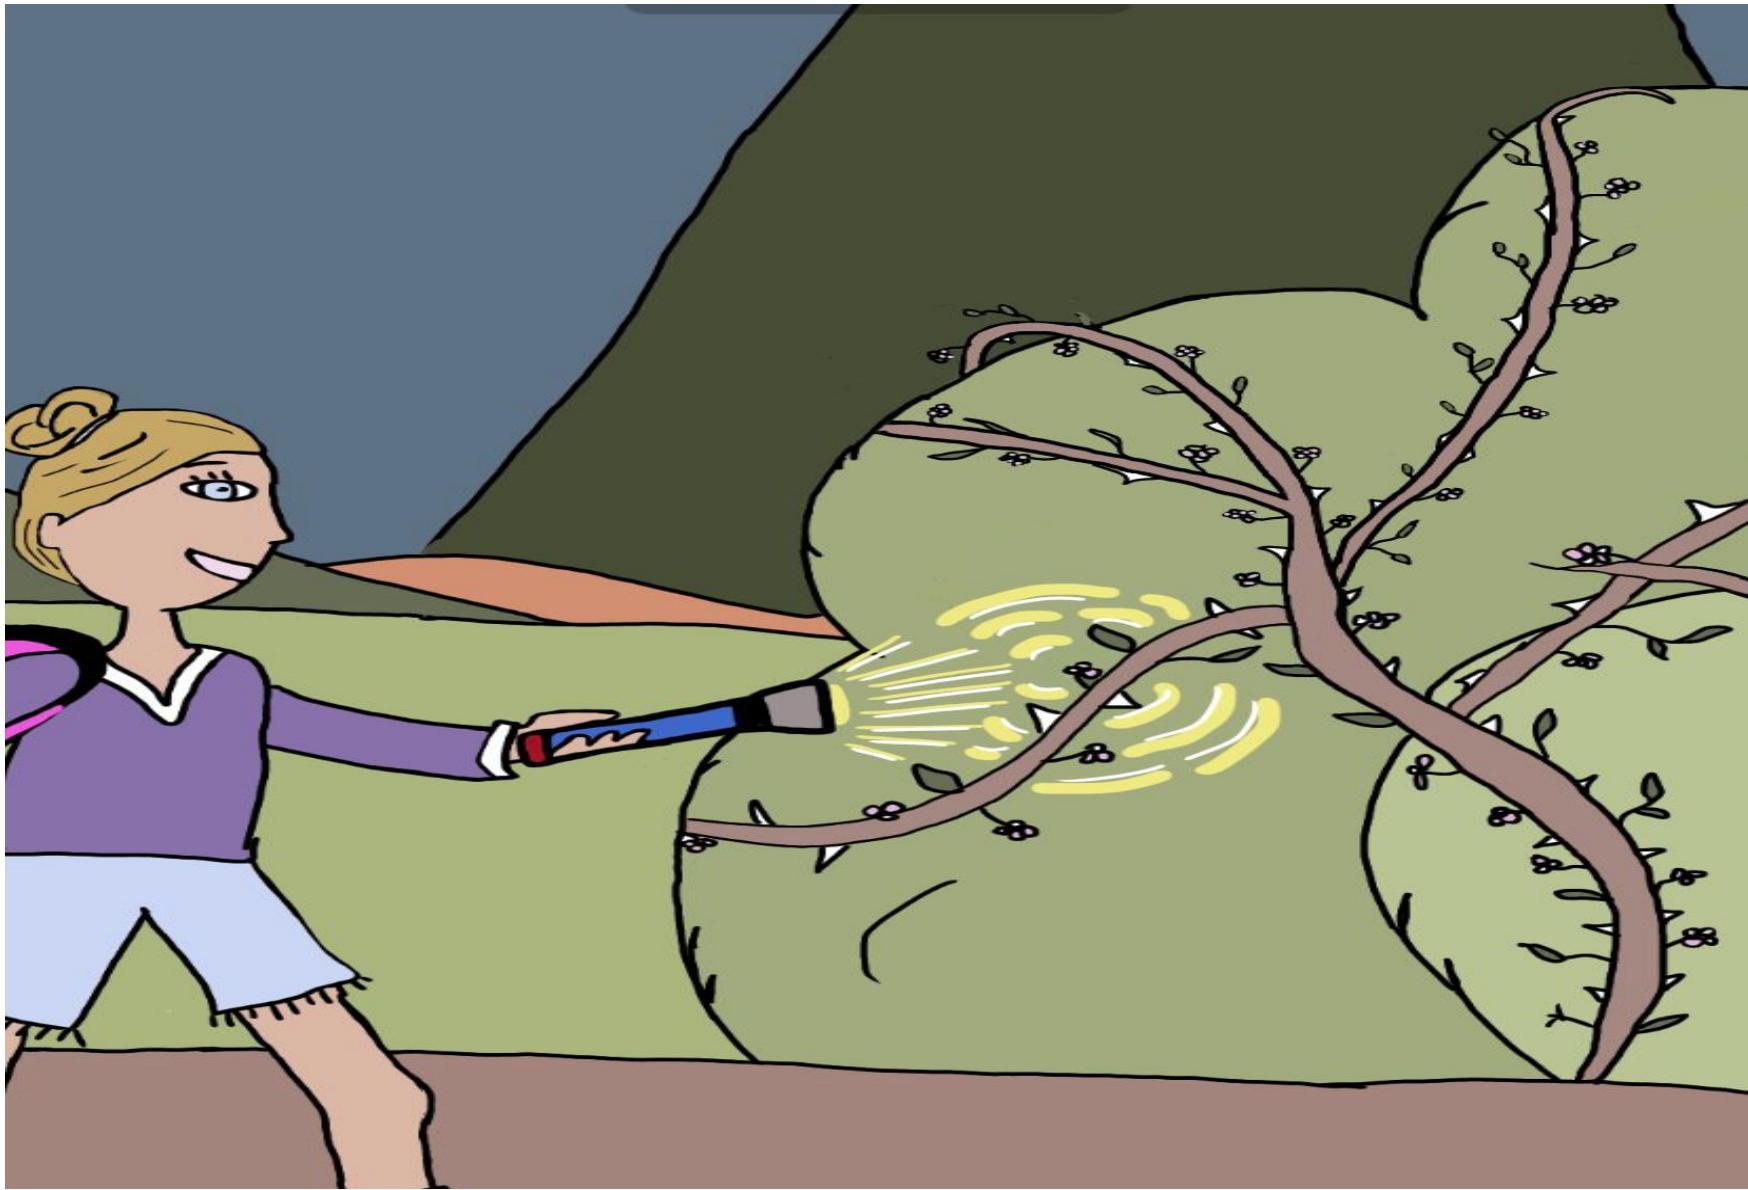

By Teresa Taylor

Mike and I go on a hike at night.

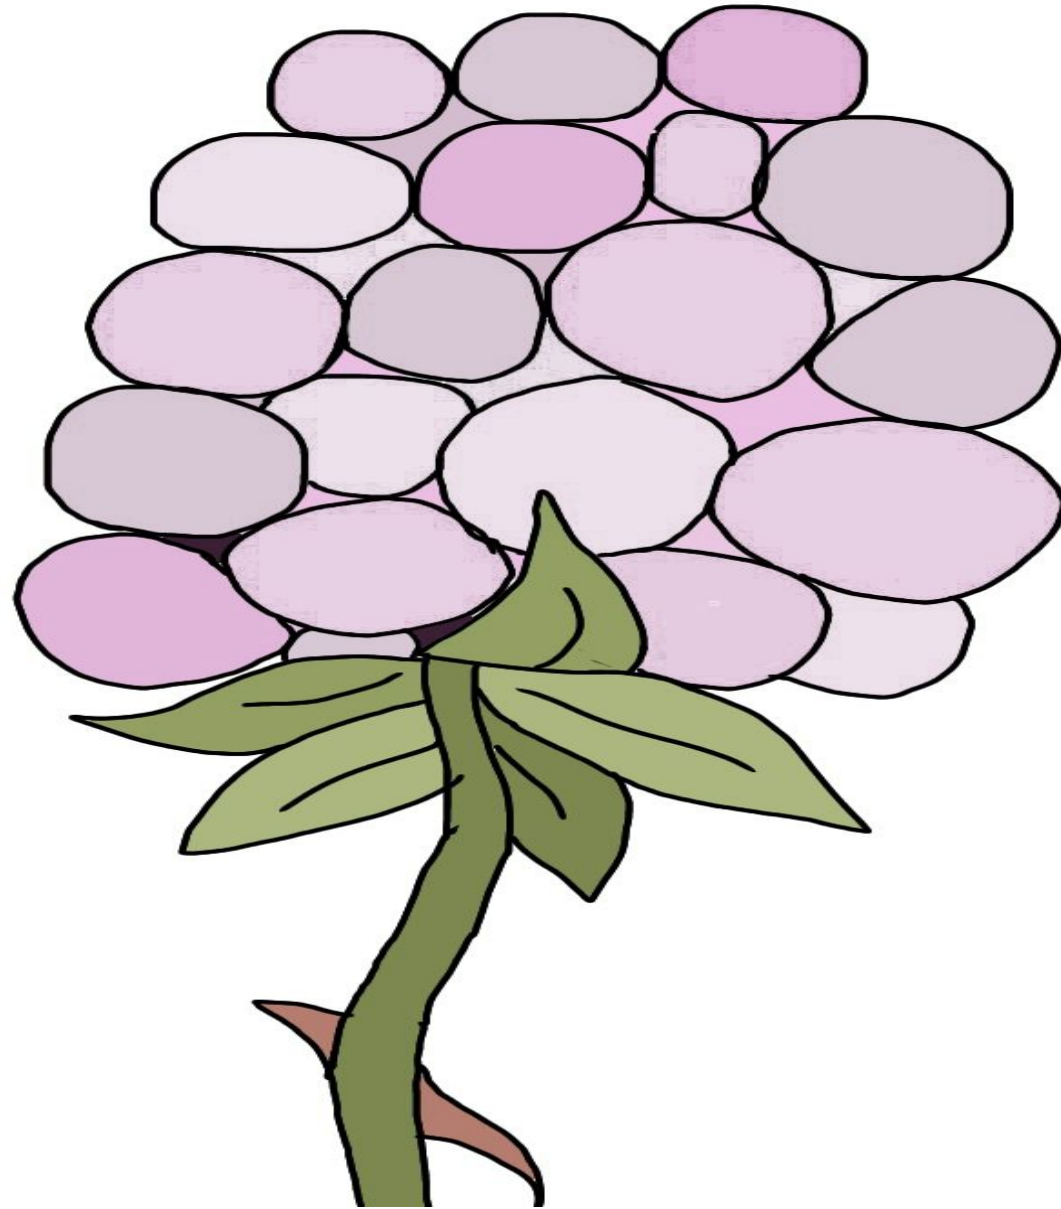

I spy a vine right by the path.

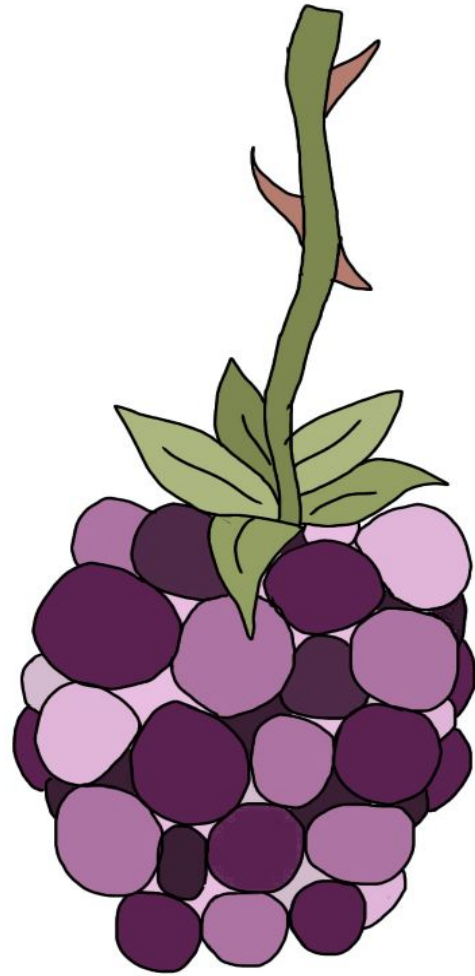

I shine my bright light on the vine.

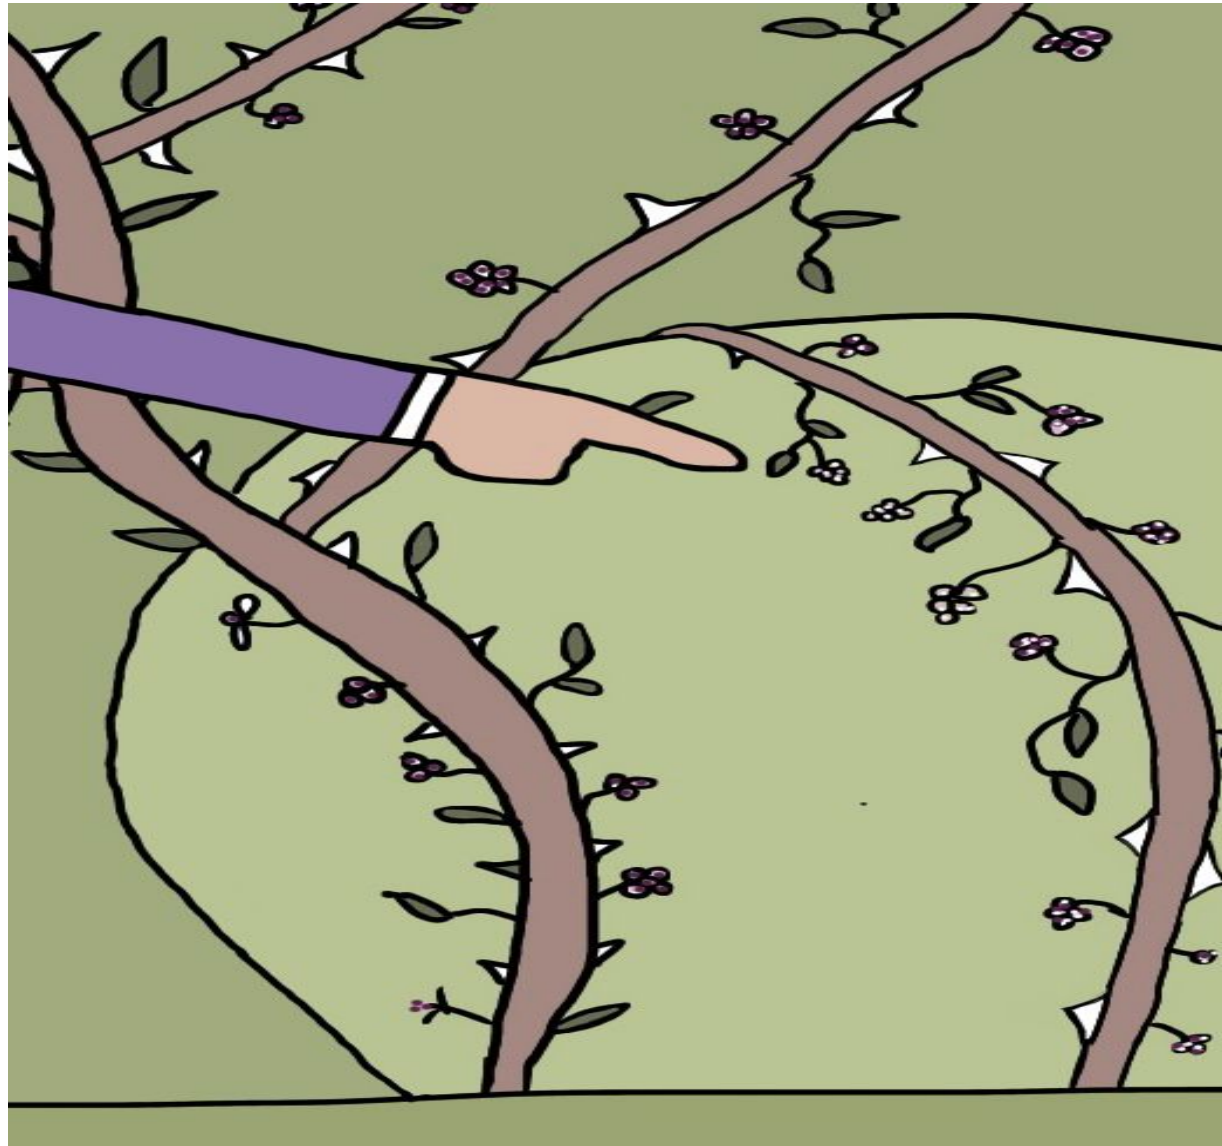

Small buds grow on the vine.

The buds have a slight white tint.

The buds are the size of a dime.

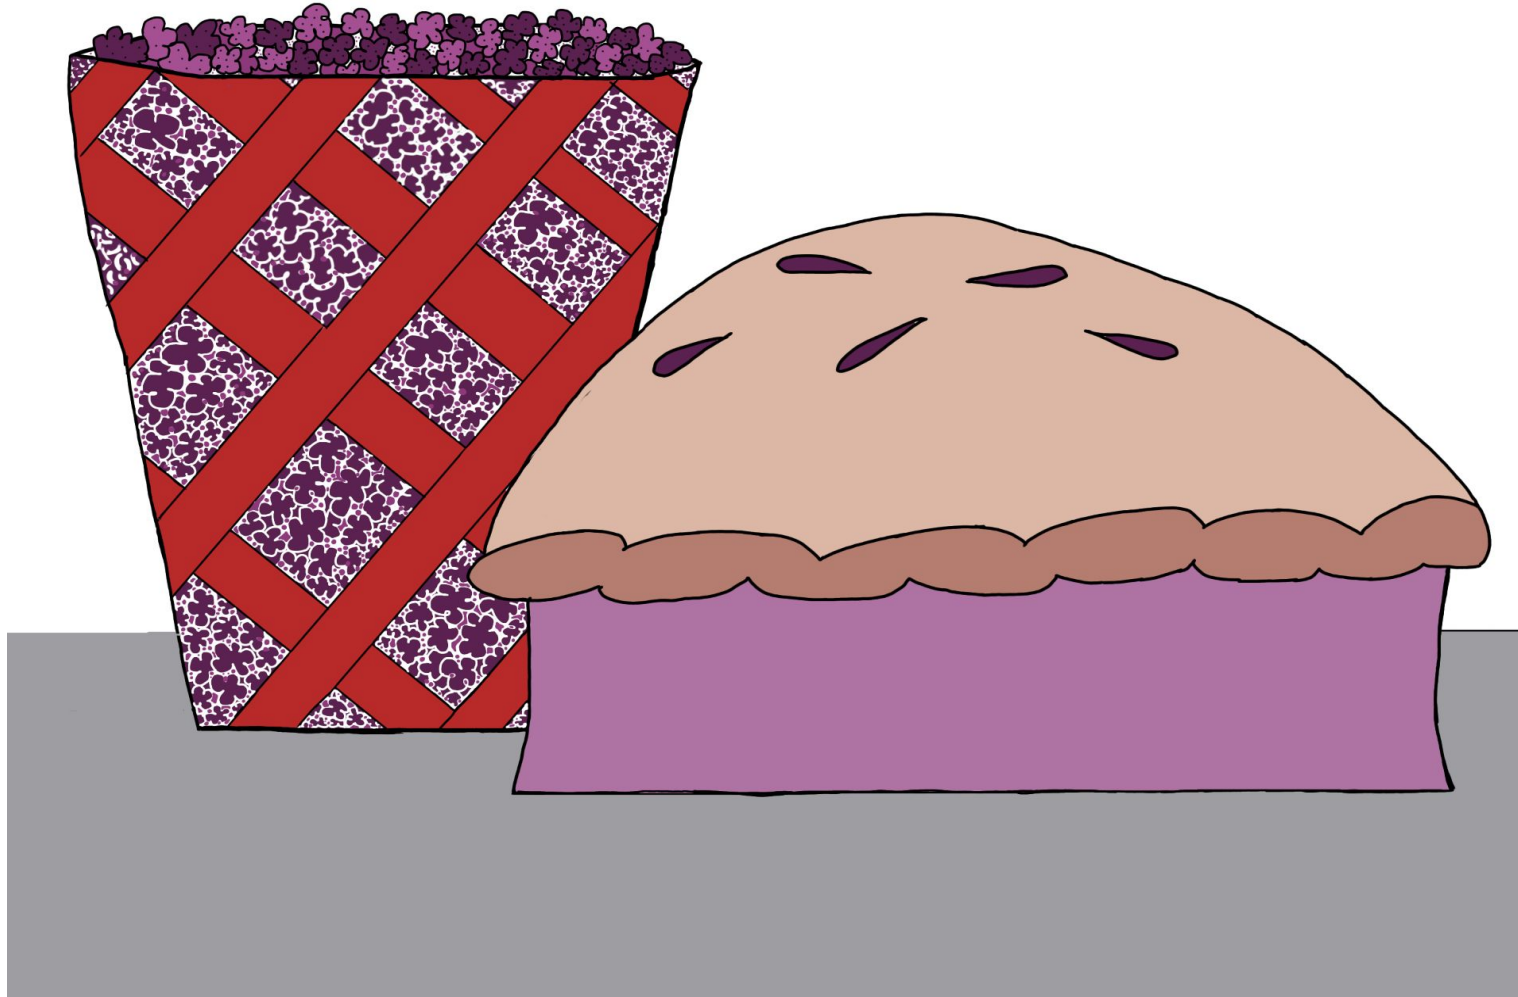

Oh nice! This is a black berry vine.

I try a bite. It is not quite ripe.

It might be time to pick in five days.

I will pick a big pile and make a nice pie.
