

What Joe Likes

Written by Teresa Taylor

Joe is in the ninth grade. He likes so much in life. One thing he likes is his bike. He likes to do tricks on his bike.

His bike is white. It has a bright light on the hand grips. It lights up the sky so he can ride his bike at night. The bike is fast and lots of fun to ride.

Joe has a kite he likes. The kite is bright in the sky. He will fly his kite high and let it glide in the light wind.

The kite flies so high in the sky. It dips and turns like a bird. Joe holds on tight so the kite string doesn't slide from his hand.

Joe likes the tide most of all. He likes to jump in the sea when the tide gets high. He jumps over the waves with a big splash. He is not shy to get wet.

On a nice day, Joe will ride on his surf board. He will slip and slide through the waves at high tide. He glides through the sea.

Joe is tired at the end of the day. He rides back to the beach on a big white wave. The tide is strong and pulls him to shore.

Joe has the right plan in life. He likes to have fun. That is why he likes to ride his bike, fly his kite, and ride the tide. These are all bright spots in Joe's life.
